

AJLA Successes

DART - A Powerful Reporting System

Simple Data Access

DART provides powerful manipulation and reporting capabilities for states using any operational system by importing their raw data into DART data files. States using America's Workforce System (AWS) or America's Joblink (AJL) will receive programs necessary to download data to the DART database, while states using their own operational systems will receive a data dictionary and technical assistance to help them map their data to the DART system.

Simple, Cost Effective Report Generation

A simple runtime procedure is all it takes to meet federal reporting requirements for the ETA-9002 A, B, C, D and E; VETS 200 DV, LV and DV/LV; Migrants Indicators of Compliance and the WIA Quarterly and WIA Yearly Summary. DART provides the processes necessary to produce the federal reports directly from the PC. When reports are generated by DART, the system creates all output files for data validation and uploads to the EIMS system. In addition, DART will print reports to paper, to PDF files, or to text files.

The system has also been developed to include State reports. This feature continues to be updated and enhanced as special reporting needs change.

Meaningful Ad-Hoc Reports Using Most Current Data

DART is a relational database system that allows access to data by virtually any reporting software. DART allows subscribing states the freedom to create meaningful, customized reports by using the report generating software of their choice.

Modular Structures For Flexibility And Growth

DART is modular in design to allow for system flexibility and unlimited growth. Changes to federal reporting will be addressed as mandated. This will ensure that mandated changes will be put into the system as soon as possible and that customers will always have the most current reporting capabilities. As the system grows, additional modules addressing state reports will be added.

DART Advantages

- Access to your enterprise data
- Generation of required federal reports
- The power to turn current data into meaningful customized reports using your preferred software
- Experience processing reports at the Federal and State levels
- Technical support on reporting issues
